Storm Drain Work to Start on Peninsula

An apparent low bid of $96,586.90 by the Wulff Construction Co. of Long Beach clears the way for start of construction of the Rolling Hills Estates storm drain, Supervisor Burton W. Chace announced today.

Bids were opened in the offices of M. E. Salsbury, chief engineer of the county Flood Control District, with a total of five proposals filed. Chace said that contract for the important drainage artery will be awarded in about 10 days.

The project, designed to drain an area subjected to runoff from the north slopes of the Palos Verdes Hills, will involve some 3870 feet of main line concrete pipe varying in size from 48 inches to 24 inches in diameter and the necessary supporting fixtures.

Plans call for the construction of two lines as a part of the overall project, Chace reported.
